MEMBER NEWS

From Linda Voehringer: Some news, Hidden Valley Prince Charming was put down this fall. He was the pride and joy of Grace DeServo for most of his life. Prince was a fancy, black and white, registered shetland (and registered pinto) that excelled in hand and in harness. I purchased Prince in the fall of 2003 while at the NJ All Breed Show, with very little arm twisting from Grace who had moved to southern New Jersey. Of course Prince came with "Billy", the goat. Billy was with us until he developed cancer and we also had to put him down about 2 years ago in the spring. Prince didn't seem to miss Billy, once he came to our place and saw all the other little ponies. Prince buddied up with our old welsh roadster mare, ZanMar's Rebel Rouser. Unfortunately, Rebel passed away of natural causes at the age of 29 in the fall of 2008 and Prince was just beside himself since her passing. Although Prince tried to hang out with the other ponies, with Lust FancyAnna and Lusts Platinum Gold as his closest friends, it still was not the same connection that he had with Rebel. Prince spent this summer teaching one of our other registered shetland "Champ" how to be a good pony - trotting up for treats, standing for fly spray and all the little things a youngster needs to know. Prince was only 18 years old, and is now buried next to Rebel, and not far from Billy. We had a special liking for Prince, as he was a grandson of one of our top ponies in the 1970's - Modenaire's Kewpie. The vet thought he may have had a stroke, and to put him through extensive testing would most likely not yield a different outcome. Interestingly his grandmother, also had a stroke. But with her, we had witnessed her seizure.

In other news Since being diagnosed with Multiple Sclerosis this June, I have decided to thin down on the number of ponies and horses. I have sold my best Saddlebred, as well as my last welsh mare. Top on my list is to sell a lovely liver chestnut, foundation shetland bred mare, New York Sparkling Jewel. Jewel IS New Jersey bred, having foaled at Marion Smiths in 2005, and she has been shown in hand successfully. Jewel is out of Lust's Platinum Gold (palomino) and by Autumn Wood Holy Smoke (grey & white). She is a fancy mare that is easy to catch and handle. Unfortunately I have not had time to get her started in harness. I would really like to see her go to a home where she will be shown in New Jersey. I'm interested in selling her very reasonable and/or trading for equipment. She could be delivered for cost of fuel and tolls. She's a young mare, NJ bred and ready for a job. Please email at ilovehorseshowslive.com or call me at 518-885-6194; ask for Linda (Voehringer).

Thanks ... Linda

Equine Parasite Resistance...A Hot Topic

Equine parasite resistance is becoming a growing problem, with worms (including strongyles) becoming less sensitive to anthelmintics, the drugs that expel parasitic worms (helminths). It's a serious enough issue that several recent parasitology conferences made it a primary topic. How does it affect you and your deworming options? It depends on what you use, and how you deworm.

Basically, when a dewormer is given to a horse, it kills off the active adult worm population. However, some adults that weren't affected by that dose could survive, and their genes will be the ones passed on to the next generation. In the case of small strongyles (see Worm of the Month sidebar), there can even be larvae encysted in the horse's intestines that will erupt and mature to take the place of those adults that have died, often causing inflammation, diarrhea, and sometimes colic. Although this is a very simplistic explanation, it shows that frequent deworming to keep a horse totally parasite-free is not only unrealistic, it can be harmful. If that's the case, what do we do now?

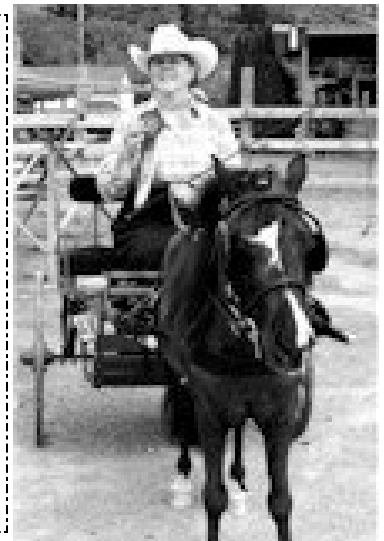

John Byrd, DVM, founder of Horsemen's Laboratory (H-Lab), was recently interviewed for several publications (see links, below) on his views about equine parasite resistance. The type of fecal exams offered by H-Lab since the early 1990s are just the kind of assessments now suggested by equine parasitologists in the revised deworming protocols.

The new deworming recommendations include:

- Running fecal exams to determine individual horse parasite burdens, and types of worms that are present.
- Focusing on 'high shedding' horses that produce higher egg counts, and deworm them more frequently than low-shedders, to reduce the numbers of eggs in your environment.

Use a dewormer suited to your parasite population, and don't leap to rotation as a panacea; rotating dewormers can mask what's actually going on.

News from Casey Gugel: Don't know what sort of photos you're looking for but my mom Marti Schwind would be tickled to see this photo of her and her stallion Rebel after their recent accomplishment! They recieved Grand Champion this summer for Western Pleasure Driving, Mini Division at the Garden State Miniature Horse Assoc. Show in Harmony, NJ, in May. She was so proud as she's been putting so much work into this new pony and has not shown in years due to the passing of her "prized, one and only" stallion, Star who died in 2006. It was very emotional and put smiles on all of our faces to see HER smile with her NEW 'prized' stallion Rebel. :) We will never forget Star but Rebel resembles him and has his kind gentle personality thats truly hard to resist. We are expecting a beautiful baby out of him this coming spring, just like the one two years ago! :) Thanks!

News from Liz Hofer of Lower Cross Farm: Davric Honey Bee, our section A Welsh mare, has had an outstanding year. In 2009 she earned her AOE (award of excellence). She is also the 2009 WPCSA National Champion in Child's First Pony and A/B Small English Pleasure, and Reserve National Champion in Short Stirrup Hunter. Honey also earned a 4th for both A mares and Leading Rein. For USEF, she was 6th nationally for Welsh Small Pleasure. Our section B mare, Glynhafan Hermione also had a great year. She is 2009 WPCSA National Champion in both A/B Medium/Large English Pleasure and Short Stirrup Hunter with our daughter Kaitlin Hofer, and Reseve National Champion in A/B Adult English Pleasure and A/B Adult Western Pleasure with me. Hermione is also USEF 2009 HOTY Reserve National Champion Welsh Pony Adult, and Zone 2 Champion Welsh Pony Adult. Both ponies have won many other year end awards
